How to write Tet

one stroke, from the top down

1 · One stroke
Start at the top left. Go down, round the bottom, up the right side and curl in at the top.

Good to know

The right side curls back in at the top. Finish inside the curl.

Hebrew is written from right to left, and a letter is drawn from the top down: the roof first, then the walls, then the floor. Every letter hangs from the top of the line — Lamed alone reaches above it — and Qof and four of the five final forms drop below it.

Practice

◀ Hebrew is written from right to left. Start each line at the green arrow and work toward the left.
